

Suggested social media posts

- @WaterSafetyScot, in conjunction with @NWSFWeb and its members are pleased to announce it will be using the Respect The Water Campaign to help promote safety around both inland and coastal water in Scotland #RespectTheWater
- As venture out of COVID 19 restrictions please think about your own, your family's and the emergency service responder's safety around the water, 45% of people who drowned didn't expect to fall in the water #RespectTheWater
- It looks like it's going to be a nice weekend and you may be thinking about going to Scotland's beautiful coastline, river or Lochs. If you are please stay safe and #RespectTheWater
- If you see someone in trouble DO NOT enter the water, call 999 or 112 For inland waters ask for the Fire and Rescue Service For coastal waters ask for the Coastguard #RespectTheWater
- Find out more about Scotland's Drowning Prevention Strategy <https://www.watersafetyscotland.org.uk/strategy/> #RespectTheWater
- The weather doesn't look good this weekend and you may have thought about going to take pictures, please don't as you are putting yourself, your family, your friends and the emergency services at risk when it goes wrong #RespectTheWater
- Keep safe this summer if you are out and about near water. Learn about Cold Water Shock and its effects here: <https://www.watersafetyscotland.org.uk/information/cold-water-shock/> #RespectTheWater
- Heading to the beach this weekend? Leave inflatable toys at home #RespectTheWater
- Enjoy yourself around water but remember waterways such as reservoirs and canals, can hold hidden dangers. Follow our Water Safety Code: <https://www.watersafetyscotland.org.uk/information/> #RespectTheWater
- Stay safe in and around Scotland's waters by following the Water Safety Code: <https://www.watersafetyscotland.org.uk/information/> #RespectTheWater